Lonza/Raschka Engineering's successful participation at ACHEMA 2012

Lonza/Raschka Engineering has successfully participated at the ACHEMA which took place at Frankfurt Germany from the 18th to the 22nd of June, 2012. The event has delivered many new contacts including some real project inquiries we now follow up.

ACHEMA is the world forum of the process industry and the trend-setting technology summit for chemical engineering, environmental protection and biotechnology; ACHEMA takes place every 3 years, and attracts over 4,000 exhibitors from five continents, 180,000 participants from 100 countries, and 30,000 executives worldwide. Lonza/Raschka Engineering successfully participated at AchemAsia 2010, which greatly spread our brand name of "Lonza/Raschka Engineering", meanwhile, a large number of customers became our potential business partners.

The Lonza/Raschka engineering exhibition team has been able to hold professional discussion with potential customers from around the world; at the same time we were able to identify our competitive position within the local and international engineering world. With the feedback received we are even more confident that our business model and strategy is solid and will provide us a bright future. Our promotional material and business information was well received and we were able to spread the brand name "Lonza/Raschka Engineering" to a large number of people and with no doubt some of them will lead to future business partners.
